Notes from the Bishop

Trust the Winds of the Spirit: Curiosity, Courage, and Compassion

When we gather in assembly at the end of May, we will be exploring, in our worship services, devotions, and conversations, what it means to allow our individual and communal faith lives to be shaped by curiosity, courage, and compassion. I’d like to prime the pump, so to speak, so here’s why I think these three words should guide us as we move forward in God’s mission.

Curiosity. I’ve come to believe that life, ministry, and leadership in this time is more about asking the right questions, not having the right answers. We are living in a time of such significant, constant, and rapidly increasing change, that the answers we derive are often in response to yesterday’s questions. We need to keep asking, exploring, entering into our relationships with a spirit of curiosity, wondering just what God is inviting us to be and do in this fluid time. Asking questions also keeps us humble, as we need to enter into relationships with new people or new situations with a spirit of openness, always seeking to know and understand more deeply.

Courage. I’ve come to believe that when our faith is deep and rooted in the promises of God’s love for us in Christ, we can be freed to take risks and enter into situations and conversations that may well be new, fearful, and challenging. Having the faith and courage to step outside our familiar and comfortable places to engage does not mean that we have no fear, rather that our faith is greater than our fear. We can then, rooted in curiosity and humility, ask the hard questions that help us examine our own prejudices and practices that perpetuate the systems and behaviors that deny the humanity of others.

Compassion. I’ve come to believe that, as we consider how to fashion our ministries to engage in God’s mission in this fluid context, the one constant in our lives of faith is love. We cannot try to strengthen our ministries and expand our outreach motivated by a desire to save the church or get new members; we simply need to explore how we can love our neighbors better. Compassion calls us outside ourselves and helps us focus our lives and our ministries on the needs of others.

I look forward to our time together in assembly and to discovering together how God is calling us to engage in the mission of love and reconciliation, strengthening our communities and walking together, with God, with each other, and with our neighbors near and far.
Synod Assembly 2019

As we gear up for this year’s synod assembly, we want to alert you to the fact that there will be some significant changes in how we use our annual gathering to do the important work of the Greater Milwaukee Synod.

Starting in 2019, the synod assembly will be shorter, and will begin on Friday evening, May 31 and end on Saturday, June 1 at approximately 4 p.m. We will also be trying out a new location, meeting at the Italian Community Center in Milwaukee.

The reasons for these changes are several, but a primary motivation is to increase the diversity of our assembly participants. By avoiding weekday meeting times, we hope that people for whom this has been an obstacle will now be able to participate fully in our annual gathering.

We will continue to hold the annual Assembly in Mission event in February, and this will be the time for ministry fairs and workshops.

We intend to follow this pattern for several years and we look forward to your input and feedback as we continue to develop this event.

At Synod Assembly 2018, we have four great and mostly free public events for everyone to attend. See next page.

1. If you haven’t registered yet please register no later than April 30. Prices go up on May 1! (milwaukeesynod.org/event/synod-assembly-2018)

How Did We Get Here? Reggie Jackson

Thursday, May 31 at 6:30 p.m.

Reggie Jackson, from Nurturing Diversity Partners, will share a close look at the historical forces that have created racial divisions throughout the nation’s history to gain a better understanding of how we became a nation that is so divided by race. We will look at some common sense solutions that will assist us in making progress towards building a racially just society that we will all benefit from as Americans. Women and Justice Hearing

Thursday, May 31 at 3 p.m.

Our Greater Milwaukee Synod is hosting two hearings for ELCA members to comment on the text of the Draft Social Statement on Women and Justice.

The first is on Thursday, May 31 and the second is on Saturday, June 16. These hearings are a vital part in the development of the statement, as an opportunity for ELCA members to share their thoughts on the draft.

A representative of the ELCA Task Force on Women and Justice: One in Christ will be present at the hearing. An appointed recorder will keep track of everything said (without names) and submit a report to the task force. The task force is committed to reading all of these reports as they consider how to revise the draft into a proposed social statement, which will be released in February 2019.

For additional information about the synodical hearing, please visit ELCA.org/womenandjustice or call the synod office at 414-671-1212.

A second hearing will be held on June 16 from 9:30-11 a.m. at St. Matthew’s Lutheran Church in Wauwatosa. Learn more about this second hearing at goo.gl/Waf1V4.
